In the fight against the epidemic, the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic of "life is supreme, the whole country is united, sacrifice one's life, respect science, and share a common destiny" has been forged. The great spirit of fighting against the epidemic is an important component of the Chinese spirit born and developed in the fight against the new crown pneumonia epidemic, and it is the latest manifestation of the core socialist values into the cultivation of socialist core values of college students, it is necessary to fully understand and apply its rich connotations, take various advanced deeds and heroes in the anti-epidemic struggle as real cases, and comprehend and apply them from theoretical learning. Practice two aspects to promote the learning of the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic and enhance the effectiveness of the cultivation of socialist core values.

2. The Inner Connection Between the Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic and the Core Socialist Values

Chinese President clearly pointed out: "The great spirit of fighting against the epidemic is in the same line with the long-term characteristics and cultural genes of the Chinese nation. It is the inheritance and development of the spirit of patriotism, collectivism and socialism. It is a vivid interpretation of the Chinese spirit and enriches the nation. The connotation of the spirit and the spirit of the times" [1]. The great spirit of fighting against the epidemic embodies "the spirit of serving the people with life first and the people first, the spirit of solidarity and unity of the whole country, the dedication spirit of devotion to one's job and one's life and death, the pragmatic spirit of scientific prevention and control and ruling the country according to law, A benevolent heart of shared destiny, friendship and mutual assistance" is the continuation and development of the core socialist values at the national, social and individual levels.

2.1. The Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic Is A Realistic Portrayal of National Value Goals

In the arduous fight against the epidemic in China, the party and the country have always put the interests of the people first, and have always regarded saving the lives of every COVID-19 patient as their primary goal. The party and the country have done their best to overcome all difficulties and ensure the safety of the people. The party and the country have written all solemn commitments for the people with practical actions, and won the victory in the fight against the epidemic with the strong national will and the firm support of the people of the whole country. The hard-won victory in the fight against the epidemic has given citizens a high degree of identification and a strong sense of belonging to the value goals at the national level. Around the world, the new crown pneumonia is raging. In the international anti-epidemic cooperation, China has actively contributed Chinese solutions and Chinese strength, especially providing assistance such as supplies and professional medical personnel to some poor and backward countries and regions with severe epidemics. Through the mutual help, cooperation and joint efforts of the international community, we have achieved extraordinary results in the fight against the new crown pneumonia epidemic, which is a realistic portrayal of the national value goal.

2.2. The Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic Is A Clear Expression of the Value Orientation at the Social Level

After the outbreak of the new crown pneumonia epidemic, all parts of the country quickly launched a first-level response. However, in the process of epidemic prevention and control, there have been cases of non-compliance with epidemic prevention measures, harm to anti-epidemic medical staff, production and sale of low-quality medical materials, arbitrary price increases for urgently needed epidemic prevention materials and living materials, which seriously hindered epidemic prevention and control work. implementation, etc. In response to the above bad behaviors, only by investigating and handling such illegal and criminal cases in accordance with the law, can the society be stabilized, the epidemic prevention work in various places can be effectively carried out, and the epidemic can be effectively controlled as soon as possible. To this end, the state has continuously promulgated and improved laws and regulations on public health and emergency response, and built a systematic, standardized, scientific, reasonable, and effective legal system to strengthen epidemic prevention and control. Under this system, medical and health care, state organs, social organizations, people's armies, commercial organizations and other members of the whole society, in their respective fields, go all out to provide their own strength for the fight against the epidemic, and for those who ultimately win the fight against the epidemic. Victory provides a solid guarantee. Under the leadership of the party and the state, and under the socialist system, we can concentrate the strength of the whole country and the whole society to do great things and accomplish things. The social value orientation of freedom, equality, justice, and the rule of law has also been clearly expressed.

2.3. The Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic Is the Inheritance and Development of the Personal Level of Values

In the great fight against the epidemic, how to do one's own work well and efficiently and contribute to the prevention and control of the epidemic is an intuitive reflection of personal values. In the fight against the epidemic, our front-line medical staff and raincoat sister Liu Xian who provided free meals for medical staff, academicians Zhong Nanshan and Li Lanjuan went retrograde, and the staff of state organs worked tirelessly and fulfilled their duties. The actions of these people reflect the noble They have selfless dedication, devotion to their duties, and courageous responsibilities for the fight against the epidemic; and the builders of Huoshenshan Hospital and those who have made direct contributions to the fight against the epidemic, even if they respond to the country's call to not go out unless it is necessary, and wear masks when they go out. , Ordinary people who indirectly contributed to the epidemic prevention and control, during the extraordinary period of the epidemic, they all used their words and deeds to convey to the people around them the noble character of professionalism, friendliness, and abide by public morality. These touching deeds that have emerged around us allow us to see the best interpretation of the spirit of love, dedication, friendliness and mutual assistance. In the fight against the epidemic, the continuous relay of hundreds of millions of people has contributed to the personal level of socialist core values. Inheritance and development of values.

3. How to Integrate the Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic into the Theoretical Education of College Students' Socialist Core Values

In the process of fighting against the epidemic, in every ordinary position, there are touching stories that we will remember in our hearts. Around each of us, there are a group of people who love their jobs and work selflessly to protect our health. How to connect the facts we have seen with our own eyes, the people and things we heard with our own ears, and the warmth and emotion we felt personally with the theory of socialist core values requires the support of a complete theoretical system of socialist core values, through A variety of ways to sort out and analyze.

3.1. Integrate Typical Anti-epidemic Deeds Into Classroom Theoretical Teaching

The main front of cultivating the socialist core values of college students is the classroom teaching of ideological and political theory. It is necessary to innovate the method of theoretical explanation and introduce appropriate case teaching to make classroom theoretical learning more grounded and meaningful. In theoretical study, it is necessary to actively explore all kinds of heroic characters and typical deeds that emerged in the fight against the epidemic. In order for the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic to be deeply understood by students, the special background of the occurrence of the typical deeds and the actual situation faced by the characters must be understood. Explain clearly, and at the same time, the characters in typical deeds have the power of personality reflected in the face of various difficult choices. According to the students of different majors, we should accurately select the advanced anti-epidemic figures in related industries or professional fields to tell the story. Through a comprehensive interpretation of the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic of actual cases, college students will be strengthened to understand and agree with the theoretical system and reality mapping of the three levels of socialist core values.

3.2. The Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic Propaganda Is Integrated into the Construction of Campus Culture

According to the concept of three-round education, the theoretical study of socialist core values should cover all scenarios of students' study and life. The propaganda of the socialist core values needs to go deep into the students' study and living places, and into the students' cultural and sports activities. The publicity materials for the deeds of advanced anti-epidemic figures should be arranged in public places such as dormitories, classrooms, and canteens. Telling the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic in an expression that is most acceptable to the students can enhance the appeal and interactivity of the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic. Make full use of various campus mainstream media, optimize content forms, enrich communication channels, and enhance the spread of the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic. Use campus multimedia to play audio, video and other multimedia materials containing the spirit of anti-epidemic. Organize keynote speeches on promoting the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic, collection of articles or photos on the theme of anti-epidemic deeds, and group classes on the theme of practicing the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic; use the online platform to carry out online collection and display work on the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic, and create an all-round learning about the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic. The campus cultural atmosphere of the epidemic spirit.

3.3. Positive Guidance of Online Public Opinion Related to Anti-epidemic

Contemporary college students grow up with the Internet, and the ideas and speeches on the Internet have a significant impact on the formation of their values. In the process of actively fighting the epidemic at home and abroad, there have been many discordant and even completely wrong ideological remarks at home and abroad. The cultivation of socialist core values for college students requires us to fight resolutely against these fallacies and heresies that smear the fight against the epidemic. We must take the initiative to speak out on various online media and platforms, and occupy the high ground of online propaganda and public opinion. Tell the story of China's anti-epidemic through public opinion on the online platform, publicize and report typical deeds, let the college students know the real situation of China's anti-epidemic, and introduce the great achievements of China's anti-epidemic measures.

4. The Practical Path of the Great Spirit of Fighting Against the Epidemic in the Cultivation of College Students' Socialist Core Values

The great spirit of fighting against the epidemic was born in the great practice of fighting the epidemic, and its practical and practical significance is outstanding. At present, the fight against the epidemic is far from over, and the situation of the epidemic is ups and downs. It is highly feasible and necessary for college students to continue to comprehend and practice the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic in practice.

4.1. Educating and Guiding College Students to Earnestly Implement School and Local Epidemic Prevention Requirements

The epidemic prevention and control work requires the active cooperation of everyone, but some college students have returned to school without reporting to the school for approval, deliberately concealed personal travel history and health information, and did not comply with the school and local epidemic prevention and control work arrangements. For college students to practice the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic, the primary task is to strictly abide by the epidemic prevention requirements of the school and the epidemic prevention management department of the place of residence, and actively cooperate with the implementation of epidemic prevention and control management measures. Secondly, pay attention to the latest requirements of epidemic prevention and control in a timely manner, earnestly learn epidemic prevention knowledge, practice epidemic prevention and sanitation requirements at home or in the bedroom, and create a clean and hygienic learning and living environment. Once again, timely report all kinds of people with suspected symptoms found by themselves or around them, and actively cooperate with the epidemic prevention and control work. Finally, abide by the epidemic prevention travel regulations, report and register as required, and strictly implement the requirements for observation and isolation. Starting from the most basic requirements of epidemic prevention and control, starting from every little thing around us, is the starting point for us to practice the spirit of anti-epidemic. To educate and guide college students to abide by the law and strictly implement the regulations and requirements of epidemic prevention is the most direct manifestation of practicing the spirit of anti-epidemic.

4.2. Plan and Organize College Students to Actively Participate in the Publicity and Sharing of Anti-Epidemic Deeds

In the fight against the epidemic, each of us is a personal experimenter, and no one can stay out of it. College students have experienced epidemic prevention and control measures such as delayed return to school, home-based online classes, and school closure management. During the epidemic period, many college students saw the grassroots staff around them working tirelessly, rushing around every day for the anti-epidemic work, and delivering anti-epidemic materials and living materials to the people in need of ordinary things around them. As witnesses, these college students have the most say. We must encourage and mobilize these students to express their feelings and insights in various forms, so that more people can participate in the propaganda of the great spirit of fighting against the epidemic. . Organize and plan essays, lectures, sharing sessions, etc. on the theme of anti-epidemic, so that college students can use their own experience and deep experience to show the spirit of patriotism, professionalism, dedication, struggle, unity, and the rule of law.

4.3. Encourage and Mobilize College Students to Participate in Epidemic Prevention Volunteer Activities Within Their Abilities

In epidemic prevention and control, a large number of volunteers are required to participate in it to ensure the implementation of epidemic prevention and control measures. In the voluntary service of epidemic prevention, you can experience the impact of the epidemic on all aspects of our country, society and individuals, understand the greatness of the fight against the epidemic, feel the determination of the party and the country to put people's lives and safety first, and understand that China's institutional advantages can cope with all difficulties and challenges. Under the adequate protective measures, college students will actively participate in voluntary services within their own capabilities in combination with their majors and specialties. For example, in villages, towns or communities, information registration of foreigners, assistance in temperature measurement, assistance in distribution of materials, academic assistance for children of home quarantine and anti-epidemic staff, and education on epidemic prevention knowledge and epidemic prevention policies in schools, etc. Let college students promote the sublimation of the socialist core values in the practice of epidemic prevention volunteer activities, and internalize the socialist core values in the heart and externalize them in the practice of epidemic prevention volunteer services.
