1. Introduction

The survey shows that 73.1% of the students will take the initiative to provide help when their roommates are in trouble; when their roommates are depressed, 68.5% will take the initiative to ask and guide them, while 8.1% will worry about them secretly[1]. It can be seen that most of the members in the same dormitory will take the initiative to provide help and express their concern when they face difficulties and frustrations. Interpersonal relationship in the dormitory is the most convenient resource for individuals to deal with recently. In the 338 dormitory of Xiangtan University's Beiyuan Zhongxing, four "Hunan girls" help each other and make progress together, and the four of them have won 20 national awards, 6 provincial awards and 52 school-level awards in three years, and eventually the whole dormitory is guaranteed for graduate school. They are Zeng Yihan, Zhang Yazhi, Li Bing and Duan Quanqinqian, four college students majoring in English at the School of Foreign Languages in grade 19 of the university. Through real-life examples, we can see that a good dormitory atmosphere contributes to both individual and collective achievements.

Dormitory head log as a new type of information carrier, can build a bridge of friendship within the dormitory, how to build this bridge more solid and perfect depends on the injection of innovative thinking.

In the student work, class is the basic unit of colleges and universities, and the dormitory is the basic unit of the class, in order to do a good job of student work, the dormitory is the most basic, the most cutting-edge position, should give full play to the dormitory head of the subjective initiative, the student work to each student.

2. Thematic Thrust

In general, the interpersonal atmosphere in the dormitories of college students in China is good, and their satisfaction with interpersonal relationships is high[2]. Dormitory culture, as an important part of campus culture, has gradually been emphasized by educational authorities at all levels and colleges and universities. The CPC Central Committee and the State Council "on further strengthening and improving the ideological and political education of college students" in Article 22 pointed out that "we should attach great importance to the ideological and political education of college students in student apartments and other new types of college student organizations, select the backbone of college students to participate in the education and management of the student apartments, network, and give full play to the college students' own initiative and initiative, to enhance the effect of education "[3]. The Ministry of Education "on further strengthening the management of student apartments in institutions of higher learning a number of provisions," also clearly pointed out that "student apartments is an important place for students' daily life and study, is the ideological and political work of students outside the classroom and the quality of the education of an important position. Colleges and universities should, according to the actual situation of their own schools, assign a certain proportion of excellent political cadres and political counselors to be stationed in student apartments. To further implement the party and group organizations into the apartment"[4].

Rogers points out that "the herd behavior of the youth is likely to be a compromise between his need to be accepted and the preservation of his individuality. In college, students have a greater than 80% prevalence of herd behavior. They are very concerned about what the group, especially their roommates who live together frequently, think of. They care a lot about what the group, especially their roommates who live together often, think of them[5]. Although he believes that individuality is important, he also feels that conformity with his peers is necessary in order to be popular[6]. In response to these psychological characteristics of youth, it can be found that college students are very susceptible to the influence of their classmates on each other during their school years. In the university period, the students in the dormitory go in and out together, spend time with each other, and influence each other, in which the dormitory chief elected by everyone becomes the spiritual leader of course, and plays a leading role in the life, concept and behavior of other students, so the dormitory chief plays a very important role in the work of the students.

3. Focus and Difficulties

In the process of implementing the dormitory director's log, the core key is to enrich the content of the dormitory director's log and the form of follow-up response. College students are young and youthful, and have fresh curiosity about everything, dare to try new things, and can quickly accept new ideas. To mobilize students to dare to write new ideas and interesting things in the journal, which can more quickly promote the counselor to understand the psychology of students, as well as to lead the students to record their own logs, to the extent that when they encounter difficulties, they can think of writing in the journal. Students are highly receptive and can easily learn how to keep the dormitory head's log and to interface with the counselor.

The difficulty encountered during the implementation of the Dormitory Leader's Log is whether students are enthusiastic in responding to this activity. In college, different students have different pursuits in life. Everyone needs to spend more time on personal study and life arrangements, independent time increases, collective time is shortened, and the collective cohesion brought by the class system is not as strong as that of the compulsory education class in university. In the management of counselors, more contact with the class committee members and dormitory chiefs, and class committee members in the dormitory distribution is uneven, in addition to class groups through the release of notices to contact students, it is difficult to do every student into the class management. The important thing that makes the dormitory head different from the class committee is that it is a member of every dormitory, and if it is used properly, it can maximize its work efficiency and convey information to every dormitory member in a very timely manner. However, as the dormitory head students have different focuses, some focus on study, some favor competition, which may lead to the dormitory head's work is not in place, and the dormitory members do not have a close enough contact with the situation. In addition, this is also the case with other dormitory members, so what if the students are not willing to respond to the measure and do not use the logs actively enough to convey the message, and how to promote communication between the students and the school, or the counselor, is a difficult issue.

4. Innovative Points

Unlike ordinary diaries, the dormitory manager's log can be used on a large scale. And students write events do not necessarily disclose their identity, while communicating their needs to the counselor, you can ensure the confidentiality of the personal situation when the next time you circulate the log.

Dormitory head log counselor side of the response in a variety of forms. After receiving the logs sent by students, counselors can flexibly take corresponding measures, such as individual conversations, class meetings, picnics, games and other activities to solve different types of problems, involving psychological problems, employment and graduate school problems, life problems and so on.

5. Expected Results

Rise with the times, take advantage of the situation and change, walk with the times and resonate with the times. The implementation of dormitory director log can well help counselors contact the dormitory director to understand the dormitory situation, that is, it can help the school to update the thinking in time, clear student dynamics, and develop a campus environment in line with the living habits of contemporary college students.

In the book of learning, there is a famous saying that "learning alone without friends is lonely and little heard", college students need to help each other to learn independently, and most of the time in the dormitory, so you can use the dormitory environment to question each other, discuss problems, exchange learning methods and tips, and improve and progress together.

6. Summary

Any culture is a mirror reflecting the characteristics of the times, the dormitory culture is also subject to the influence of social fashion changes, and this influence is more obvious, so the dormitory culture is bound to have a strong characteristic of the times.

The implementation of the dormitory director's log can help dormitory members to draw closer to each other, and bravely express their innermost and truest thoughts. In the exchange of ideas, convergence at the same time, students are also learning from each other, spurring, when everyone's thoughts converge together, everyone has become a mirror of others, students will remind themselves of other people's mistakes, with other people's advantages to educate themselves.

The members of the dormitory come from different environments, and the cultural background embodied in each member is different, but all of them live together in the dormitory life, and different cultural backgrounds have been intermingled here. The journal, which combines traditional notes with popular instant transcription, will bring extraordinary influence to college students.

Dormitory culture construction will also encounter a variety of problems, these problems are very good school into a small society, so that students can feel in advance of the future to go out into the community to face the frustration. Because of bad relationships, they will learn how to coordinate interpersonal relationships; because of difficulties, they will learn how to overcome the twists and turns in the advance; because of injuries, they will learn how to protect themselves; because of failures, they will learn how to move towards success These are good dormitory culture to give them a valuable asset, help college students from the "small society" to a "small society", so that students can feel in advance the problems they will face in the future. Helps college students from "small society" to "big society", from "campus people" to "social people" gorgeous turnaround.
